

SPECIAL EDUCATION LAW AND ADVOCACY FIELD CLINIC

In the Special Education Law and Advocacy Field Clinic, students study the history and practice of special education law and gain understanding of the process of representing families of students with disabilities, while honing basic trial skills. They work at Advocates for Children and collaborating organizations, which provide free legal services to low-income families seeking appropriate educational services.