Note regarding rescheduled and make-up exams:

Rescheduled exams are arranged at the discretion of the Dean of Students and may occur any day during the exam period but must take place as soon as possible after the main administration of that exam; they will not be scheduled prior to the main administration.

Make-up exams (for students who have emergencies during the exam period) may have to be rescheduled immediately after the end of the exam period, depending on the particular circumstances of the emergency and the original date of the exam.
